Ana Navarro is a Nicaraguan-American political strategist and commentator widely recognized for her sharp analysis and ability to bring clarity to complex political conversations. A regular contributor on CNN and CNN en Español, and a co-host of The View on ABC, she offers a perspective shaped by decades of engagement in U.S. national politics, public affairs, and advocacy.

Born in Nicaragua and raised in the United States, Navarro studied Latin American Studies and Political Science at the University of Miami, and later earned her Juris Doctor from St. Thomas University School of Law. She has advised national Republican leaders, participated in presidential campaigns, and worked on issues of human rights, immigration, and foreign policy.

Navarro's speaking style is dynamic, candid, and deeply personal. She connects political analysis to lived reality — identity, belonging, and community — while offering strategic insight useful to leaders across sectors. She is a sought-after voice on the intersections of democracy, identity, media, and civic responsibility.

PROGRAMAS

Political Outlook

Ana Navarro provides a candid and dynamic analysis of the current U.S. political landscape.

Part commentary and part strategic forecast, she shares humorous and insightful stories about the personalities and power structures shaping national dialogue. With experience advising influential leaders, she offers a perspective rooted in real-world political dynamics and first-hand experience.

Politics & The Hispanic Vote

Navarro examines the Hispanic electorate as a diverse, evolving coalition rather than a single voting bloc. She highlights cultural, regional, and generational differences, and outlines what organizations need to understand to authentically engage Hispanic voters.

Her storytelling brings political strategy to life in a relatable, engaging way.

Hispanic and Latin American Issues

Focused on immigration, foreign policy, education, healthcare, and economic mobility, this keynote adapts to the audience's priorities. Navarro blends policy analysis with human stories to illuminate the issues shaping the Hispanic community and U.S.-Latin American relations.

Women in Politics

Drawing on her experience as a woman, immigrant, and public figure, Navarro discusses the challenges and opportunities faced by women in political and media leadership. She offers practical strategies for communicating with authenticity, building influence, and leading effectively in high-visibility environments.
