

AIMEE MULLINS

Actress, runway model and journalist, only disabled NCAA Division I track athlete in the nation

---

- Redefines resilience, proving that our greatest limitations can become our greatest strengths
- Inspires leaders to rethink possibility, innovation, and the future of human potential
- Challenges organizations to unlock performance through adaptability, creativity, and inclusion
- Delivers one of the most memorable stories of courage, reinvention, and extraordinary achievement
- Leaves audiences inspired to see opportunity where others see limitations

---

Aimee Mullins has excelled in multiple fields, inspiring people around the world as an athlete, actor, model and speaker. She is a TED All-Star having spoken five times for TED's main stage and salon programs and her TED talks have been viewed more 9.5 million times and translated into more than 40 languages.

She was the first double amputee in history to compete in Division 1 NCAA track and field, and later competed for Team USA in the 1996 Paralympic Games, setting world records in the 100 metres, 200 metres, and long jump. The carbon fiber 'cheetah leg' prosthetic now worn by more than 90% of athletes with leg amputations was first designed for, and with, Aimée.

Aimée went on to become a lauded runway and editorial fashion model, becoming a global brand ambassador for L'Oréal Paris, the number one beauty brand in the world.

Her career as an actor has spanned film and television, including the Netflix mega-hit Stranger Things, and has multiple feature films and a television series in development as a producer. Aimée starred in AppleTV+'s all-star drama series EXTRAPOLATIONS as Secretary of State Garrett — alongside Meryl Streep, Kit Harington, Edward Norton, Diane Lane, and other notables. Most recently, she was named as ambassador to SUPERHUMANS, a comprehensive physical and psychological rehabilitation program based in the Ukraine – joining Sting, Mick Ebeling, and Olena Zelenska, First Lady of Ukraine, and other influential individuals.

Mullins served as the Chef de Mission for the US at the London Summer Olympics and Paralympics, and was appointed by then-Secretary of State Hillary Clinton to the Council to Empower Women and Girls Through Sports.

Her prolific work for non-profit organizations is matched by her frequent public speaking appearances on topics related to the body, identity, design, and innovation. In 2017, she became one of the youngest-ever inductees into the United States' National Women's Hall of Fame. In 2019, she inducted Jane Fonda into the National Women's Hall of Fame.

TEMAS

Aimee tailors each presentation to the needs of his audience and is not limited to the topics listed below. Please ask us about any subject that interests you:

- Women
- Overcoming Adversity
- Health and Well-being
- Perseverance and Determination

PROGRAMAS

Embracing Adversity

As the pace of business accelerates and established industries spin-off, evolve or die, executives face a world far more complex than that of even a decade ago. Competition, technology, paradigm shifts and globalization make “business as usual” more like “crisis as usual.” As organizations face these challenges, leaders must continually decide how to respond. Turning away is not an option… so how can challenges be addressed in new ways? How can adverse conditions be viewed with curiosity and wonder? Is it possible for your business to thrive when your industry overall is in survival mode?

Aimée Mullins will share how she has chosen to answer these questions and how every individual can adopt the mindset that adversity and change are not to be dreaded, but actually welcomed as exciting parts of today’s “new normal.” From this vantage point, Aimée will share how she creates her path to success by taking the audience on a journey through some of the critical decision points she faced in her life — a life that has seen experiences at the Pentagon, the Olympics, in business, acting, modeling and as the President of the Women’s Sports Foundation. Most importantly, through Aimée’s experiences, listeners will see their personal and professional challenges through a powerful new lens and learn to respond to them in even more authentic, effective and meaningful ways.

CONDICIONES

- Travels from: New York, USA

- Fee Range: Please Inquire
