PROGRAMAS

Three-Sentence Essence

Spiros Margaris helps organizations prepare for the next era of business, where artificial intelligence evolves from a tool into an intelligent collaborator. Combining the perspective of a global investor with deep expertise in AI, fintech, and innovation, he shows how leaders can redesign their organizations for the age of intelligent enterprises. His presentations provide practical insights into the opportunities, challenges, and competitive advantages of the AI-powered economy.

The AI-Powered Future of Financial Services

Artificial intelligence is fundamentally transforming banking, payments, insurance, and investment management. Spiros explores how AI is creating new business models, improving customer experiences, strengthening decision-making, and reshaping competition across financial services. Leaders leave with a practical roadmap for embracing AI while managing risk and accelerating innovation.

Agentic AI: The Next Wave of Enterprise Transformation

The next generation of AI goes far beyond chatbots. Intelligent AI agents are beginning to automate workflows, collaborate with employees, and reshape how organizations operate. Spiros explains how companies can prepare for this new era of human-AI collaboration while creating more agile, productive, and competitive organizations.

FinTech Beyond Disruption

Fintech is no longer about disrupting banks—it's about reinventing financial ecosystems. Drawing on years of investment experience, Spiros shares the trends shaping digital banking, embedded finance, AI-driven payments, and the future of financial innovation.

Winning in the Age of Intelligent Innovation

Technology alone does not create competitive advantage. Organizations that combine AI, innovation, leadership, and human creativity will define the next decade. Spiros offers practical insights into building organizations capable of thriving in an era of continuous technological change.
