

AFTERBURNER

High Performance through Flawless Execution

Afterburner's team of skilled fighter pilots helps organizations transform into highly competitive task forces through the endless pursuit of flawless execution.

The combination of sound organizational development and combat-proven methodologies has made Afterburner one of the fastest growing training firms in the U.S. It leads the world's top corporations to breakthrough performance through the pursuit of flawless execution.

Afterburner teaches the process used by fighter pilots to perfectly execute missions when the stakes are high and failure is not an option. Its team of fighter pilots has a powerful mix of combat experience and business skills, with many of its members graduating from the top business schools in the U.S.

PROGRAMAS

The Afterburner Day

In this interactive, hands-on experience, audiences will compare the similar situations faced in both business and air combat. Groups will work side by side with some of the U.S top fighter pilots and learn how to excel in "the business of combat" through leadership, teamwork, and communication.

Leaning Forward

In this interactive corporate event, audiences will learn through lecture and experiential learning how fighter pilots strive for flawless execution in every single mission. Groups will work side by side with some of the U.S top fighter pilots and learn how to excel in "the business of combat."

Brief to Win!

Why highly talented and motivated teams with a great plan fall short when it comes to execution? The answer is because the plan is not properly communicated to the people who must take the battle to the competition. Through extensive combat testing, fighter pilots have developed a life-saving formula for communicating the "combat plan."
